The Cornell Law School, founded in 1887, moved into Myron Taylor Hall in 1933. The Jane Foster addition, designed by Shepley, Bullfinch, Richardson and Abbott, was completed in 1988. The Collegiate Gothic architecture of the original building was carried through the addition, which has its own tower entrance leading to a four-story atrium linking the old and new areas. The quarry which provided the stone for the original building was reopened to assure the new facade matched the original as closely as possible. Upon completion of the addition, the original building was totally renovated to provide the facilities and technology needed for a modern law school and its library.

Since its founding, Cornell Law School has exemplified the ideal propounded by Cornell University President Andrew D. White when the school was established: "Our aim should be to keep its instruction strong, its standards high, and so to send out not swarms of hastily prepared pettifoggers but a fair number of well-trained, large-minded, morally based lawyers in the best sense, who as they gain experience may be classed as jurists and become a blessing to the country, at the bar, on the bench, and in various public bodies." To accomplish this ideal for its 575 students, the school has 35 regular and clinical faculty who teach a diverse and well-structured curriculum in the excellent facilities offered by Myron Taylor Hall and the Jane Foster addition.

Directory of State Bar Admission Administrators 74

INTRODUCTION

The Review of Legal Education contains information concerning all approved law schools. In addition, a list is presented of the bar admission administrators of the several jurisdictions. This information has been collected through the cooperation of the law school deans, the National Conference of Bar Examiners, and the state boards of law (bar) examiners.

American Bar Association Approval. Since the adoption of the first law school accreditation standards by the American Bar Association in 1921, state supreme courts and other bar admitting authorities have encouraged the ABA's accreditation efforts, and the vast majority of states rely upon ABA accreditation to determine whether an applicant meets the educational requirements for admission to the bar. Graduation from a state-approved law school may qualify a person to take the bar examination in the state in which the school is located but generally does not qualify the person for the examination in other states.

The United States Secretary of Education, Department of Education, has listed the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar officially as the "nationally recognized accrediting agency" for professional schools of law. The Council on Postsecondary Accreditation also has recognized the program of law school approval of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association. The Association of American Law Schools also has been recognized by COPA.

Law schools are approved by the American Bar Association upon application of a school and after a finding that the school offers a sound program of legal education which complies with the Standards for Approval of Law Schools of the American Bar Association. A law school is approved by action of the House of Delegates of the Association. Responsibility for administering the Association's program of accreditation has been placed with the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar.

Applications for provisional approval are not considered until a law school has completed the first academic year of its program. Therefore, the charter class of a new school enrolls in an "ABA-unapproved" school.

A law school will be granted provisional approval when it establishes that it substantially complies with each of the Standards and gives assurances that it will be in full compliance with all of the Standards within three years after receiving provisional approval. Only when the applicant school establishes its substantial compliance, gives assurances that it will be in full compliance with the Standards within three years, and appears to have the necessary resources to accomplish these assurances, may it be granted provisional approval.

A law school which has been provisionally approved for two years will be considered for full approval by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association upon a finding by the Council that the school fully meets the Standards for Approval of Law Schools of the American Bar Association, as interpreted by the Council, on a basis that assures continued compliance with the letter and the spirit of the Standards, with particular emphasis on a steady improvement in the quality of its educational program.

The students at provisionally approved law schools and persons who graduate while a school is provisionally approved are entitled to the same recognition accorded to students and graduates of fully approved law schools.

A total of 177 law schools are approved by the American Bar Association: 176 confer the first degree in law (the J.D. degree); the other ABA-approved school is the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General's School, which offers an officers' residence graduate course, a specialized program beyond the first degree in law. One of the 176 ABA-approved law schools (Widener) also has a branch campus which has received provisional acquiescence.

Membership in the Association of American Law Schools is separate and apart from American Bar Association approval. A law school is not eligible for AALS membership until the school has been in operation five years and has graduated three classes. Of the 176 American Bar Association-approved law schools granting the J.D. degree, a total of 158 are members of the Association of American Law Schools. While the ABA and the AALS are separate organizations, both are interested in quality legal education and maintain a close working relationship toward that end.

No rating of law schools beyond the simple statement of their accreditation status is attempted or advocated by the official organizations in legal education. Qualities that make one kind of school good for one student may not be as important to another. The American Bar Association and its Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar have issued disclaimers of any law school rating system. Prospective law students should consider a variety of factors in making their choice among approved schools.

For many years the first degree in almost all law schools was the Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.). A few gave their Juris Doctor (J.D.) to all students, while others awarded the J.D. to students graduating with honors. In recent years, all schools have changed to granting the J.D. There is no difference in the nature of the course of study for the two degrees. The Master's degree (LL.M.) usually involves a one-year program combining course work and research beyond the J.D.; the Doctorate of Juridical Sciences (S.J.D.) is a graduate academic research degree that involves major academic advanced publishable work, and the Master's in Comparative Law (M.C.L.) involves advanced work for foreign-educated lawyers.

It is the position of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association that no graduate degree in law (LL.M., M.C.L., S.J.D.) is or should be a substitute for the first professional degree in law (J.D.) and that no graduate degree should qualify as meeting the legal education requirements for admission to the bar.

Guide to Reading the Law School Tables. The first table lists the 176 J.D. degree granting law schools approved by the American Bar Association, arranged alphabetically by state. At the end of the table is the data on the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General's School. Following that is a list of unapproved law schools that are known to the Association.

The enrollment figures are in terms of head count. The figures beneath the name of the school show the enrollment by each class or year and by division. Students are classified for purposes of the enrollment statistics on the basis of whether they are carrying a full load in the division in which they are enrolled. Minority group enrollment is the total enrollment of students who classify themselves as Black, not of Hispanic Origin; American Indian or Alaskan Native; Asian or Pacific Islander; Mexican American; Puerto Rican; and other Hispano-American. Puerto Rican law students enrolled in the three approved law schools in Puerto Rico are not classified as minority students.

The "Degrees Awarded" row gives the total number of each of the specified degrees awarded by each school since the start of the 1990-91 academic year, including the 1991 summer session. The number of degrees awarded to graduates of each division is stated separately.

The next row lists full-time and part-time teachers engaged in the school's teaching program regardless of tenure status. This row counts only those teaching in the Fall 1991 semester or quarter. It does not include faculty members on research or other leave. The dean and all associate and assistant deans, as well as other administrators and librarians, are shown in the next column. Prior to 1984, this count included only teaching deans and librarians. However, with the 1984 issue, we began publishing a count of all administrators with the title of dean and all librarians with professional status.

Under the Heading "Annual Tuition and Fees," "r" stands for resident and "nr" stands for nonresident. If the amount is not followed by a symbol, it is the same for both resident and nonresident. The figure given shows what each entering student was required to pay for the 1991-92 academic year, excluding summer session; it includes both tuition and fees.

The number of academic years of college study required for admission to each approved law school is indicated by a number where a degree is not required and by "D" where a baccalaureate degree is required for admission. The letter "S" after the number of weeks indicates the school is on a semester basis. The letter "Q" indicates the school is on a quarterly basis. The next row states the minimum number of weeks required to complete the full-time program of law study. Weeks of class and examination are included, but weeks of vacation and registration are excluded in this statement.

In the next row, "Yes" is indicated where a school will accept transfer credit for course successfully completed by students in summer sessions at other institutions and where a school permits students to accelerate their graduation by attending summer sessions at other institutions. "No" indicates the school does not do so.
"Advanced Degrees Offered" indicates which post-J.D. degrees the law school offers and the particular subject area if applicable.

"Total Hard Copy Volumes" refers to the total number of volumes of law and law-related books held by the law school at the end of the 1990-91 fiscal year. "Hard Copy Volume" means a physical unit of any printed, typewritten, handwritten, mimeographed, or processed work contained in one binding or portfolio, hardbound or paperback, which has been cataloged, classified, or made ready for use.

"Microform Volume Equivalents" are also reported as the total number held at the end of the 1990-91 fiscal year. Beginning with the 1988-89 academic year, the American Bar Association Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, after consultation with the American Association of Law libraries, changed its method of counting volume equivalencies of microforms. Now the volume equivalencies of microforms are computed as follows:

> Microfiche: Six fiche are the equivalent of one volume
> Microfilm: One roll of microfilm is equivalent to five volumes

NOTES: Enrollment is that in American Bar Association-approved schools as of October 1. The LSAT test taker volume is given for the test year ending in the first year stated. Thus, 144,736 administrations occurred in the test year June, 1990, through February, 1991. J.D. or LL.B. degrees are those awarded by approved schools for the academic year ending in the first year stated. Thus, 38,800 degrees were awarded in the year beginning with the fall, 1990, term and ending with the summer, 1991 term.

Total new admissions to the bar are for the 1991 calendar year and include those admitted by office study, diploma privilege, and examination and study at an unapproved law school. The great bulk of those admitted were graduated from approved schools.

*Total overall enrollment includes post-J.D. and other.

Stanford enrollment not included.

These are updated figures for 1982-83 and 1983-84.

†This number includes Oral Roberts University, Coburn School of Law, which terminated its program effective June 1, 1986. However, the Council advised it to retain degree-ranting authority for those former students who completed satisfactorily 30 additional hours in ABA-approved law schools by Sept, 1, 1988.

††No data was available from New York state in this year, thus figure is lower than prior years'.

†††No data was available from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands in this year.

*In March, 1983, the Office of the Consultant issued revised minority J.D. statistics based on a review of every law school questionnaire received between 1974 and 1982. Discrepancies were the result of inconsistent reporting of Hispanic students by some law schools. Appropriate adjustments were made, and some minors errors in transcription corrected.

Revised figures 5/89.

†Puerto Rican students enrolled in three ABA-approved law schools in Puerto Rico totaled 1,542 students.

1991 REVIEW OF LEGAL EDUCATION
CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS OF LAW
AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION
STATEMENT OF DISAPPROVAL

The American Bar Association expressly disapproves of correspondence law courses as a means of preparation for bar examinations and for practice. Before one pursues a correspondence law course, it is suggested that he first familiarize himself with the rules and regulations of the state in which he intends to practice and inquire whether correspondence law courses are acceptable under the applicable rules and regulations of the state and any governmental agency with which one expects to secure employment. Correspondence law school graduates may take the bar examinations only in California and even there only under special conditions.

PASS/FAIL GRADING BY UNDERGRADUATE COLLEGES

At its August 1970 meeting, the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar decided to endorse the following statement issued earlier by the Law School Admission Council on the impact of pass/fail grading by undergraduate colleges upon the law school admission process. This statement has also been endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law Schools.

The adoption by an increasing number of colleges and universities of pass/fail or similar grading systems for some or all of their students' work has implications for the law school admissions process. When a student with a transcript bearing such grades seeks to enter law school, law school admissions committees will be deprived of data that have served them well in the past in making the admissions decision. In the belief that college and university faculties and administrations who are considering conversion of a conventional grading system to a pass/fail or some variant system may be interested in the possible effect of such grading systems upon their graduates who seek admission to law school, the Law School Admission Council issues this statement.

The Law School Admission Test (LSAT) was developed more than twenty years ago in response to an expressed need of law schools for additional data upon which to base their admissions decisions. Validity studies conducted over the years demonstrate that the LSAT score contributes significantly to the prediction of an applicant's grades in law school and thus aids in the making of the admissions decision. These studies show that the LSAT score and the undergraduate grade-point average are the two best quantitative predictors, and that when they are used together they are better than either used separately. College grades represent both academic competence and achievement; the LSAT score largely indicates academic competence—the kind relevant to the study of law. The academic achievement of an applicant to law school indicates the extent of his preparation and motivation for the study of law. It is apparent, then, that college grades make a significant contribution to the prediction of law school grades that is not supplied by the LSAT score.

Where an applicant for admission to law school submits a transcript in which all or virtually all of his grades are on pass/fail basis, and submits no other indication of his level of achievement in college, the admissions committee can make little specific use of his college work in predicting his law school grades. This means that this prediction must be based on the LSAT score, even though the committee would much prefer not to place sole reliance on the test scores in making this prediction. Even when such a transcript is supplemented by a narrative evaluation of the applicant by several of his teachers and deans, the committee can make only limited use of the college work in predicting performance in law school. Like interviews, these evaluations give the committee some help in making the admissions judgment, but they are largely helpful in deciding which risks to take and which to reject.

Where the applicant for admission to law school submits a transcript containing some conventional grades and some pass/fail grades, the admissions committee can develop a grade-point average for that portion of the student's work bearing the conventional grades. However, many admissions officers will not feel justified in assigning to that average the conventional weight. They may well assume that the student chose to receive a conventional grade in those courses in which he gauged his probabilities for a premium grade to be good. This indicates that his grade-point average so developed will overstate his academic competence and achievement as compared with the average of a student whose grades are all conventional. Furthermore, the committee may reasonably assume that the applicant did not make the same effort in the courses graded on a pass/fail basis as he did in those graded on the conventional basis. In short, a grade-point average based only upon the limited part of a student's work in which conventional grades were assigned seems to overstate in a compound way the student's general academic ability and achievement. Therefore, it is understandable that many admissions officers are already discounting such a grade-point average, and discounting it more if there is a large proportion of pass/fail grades.

The Council recognizes that the increased use of the pass/fail grading system—or some variant thereof—will mean that law school admissions committees and officers will place an increased reliance upon the LSAT score, a greater reliance than either the Council or law school admissions committee would like. The Council recognizes that there are many educational considerations to be taken into account by the faculty and administration in determining the appropriate grading system for that college or university. The Council, of course, respects the authority and judgment of the college and university faculty and administration in making that decision. The Law School Admission Council offers this statement concerning the effect of pass/fail grades upon the proper evaluation of a college graduate's application for admission to law school only in the hope that it may be useful to college faculties and administrations in determining what grading system to use.

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION AND ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN LAW SCHOOLS STATEMENT OF GOOD PRACTICE ON IMPARTIALITY AND PROPRIETY IN THE PROCESS OF LAW SCHOOL ACCREDITATION

(A) Those who have significant responsibility in the process leading to accreditation of law schools serve a vital and quasi-judicial function in the legal system of the United States. It is important to the fair and effective functioning of the system of law school accreditation and to the maintenance of public and professional respect for that system that those who act in it act impartially and avoid even the appearance of impropriety.

(B) One who has significant responsibility in this system or who has had significant responsibility in this system within a period of two years past, as enumerated in paragraph "D" below, should not serve as a consultant to a law school in any matter relating to:

(1) accreditation by the American Bar Association;

(2) membership in the Association of American Law Schools; or

(3) reinspection and continuation of American Bar Association accreditation or membership in the Association of American Law Schools.

(C) This restriction applies to service as consultant whether or not that service is for compensation. It does not apply to informal advice which an advisor renders (1) without fee, (2) informally, and (3) which he or she discloses fully to the other members of the accreditation or membership body on which he or she serves or has served; nor does it apply to the routine or official advice and assistance which is rendered by members of an inspection team or hearing commission, by the Consultant on Legal Education to the American Bar Association, by the Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools, or by persons acting on behalf of the Consultant or Executive Director, or (4) by a person acting in the normal course of his or her employment.

(D) This restriction applies to:

(1) members of the Accreditation Committee of the Council on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association;

(2) the President, other Officers, members of the Board of Governors, and members of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association;

(3) members of the Accreditation and Academic Freedom Committees of the Association of American Law Schools;

(4) the President and members of the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law Schools;

(5) members of the professional staff of the American Bar Association or the Association of American Law Schools, except as provided in paragraph "C" above;

(6) a member of an inspection team or hearing commission for either Association accepting appointment as a consultant to a law school that he or she has inspected or conducted hearings on, in behalf of either Association within two years after the inspection or while either Association still has under consideration matters developed by the inspection, whichever is the longer;

(7) the Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools or other person acting on behalf of the Association of American Law Schools may not acquiesce in the appointment as consultant on readiness of any person who by this Statement should not accept appointment as a school's consultant.

(E) Service as a consultant for a law school does not disqualify a person from any of the offices or committees in paragraph "D." However, the officer or committee member should excuse himself or herself from participation in discussion, formal or informal, of the affairs of a school for which he or she has served as consultant or employee and from taking part in any vote with respect to its status.

(F) A person who has served as a consultant or employee of a law school within two years prior to assuming a significant responsibility in the accreditation process should decline to participate in the determination of the accreditation status of the school with which he or she previously served.

(G) The Consultant on Legal Education to the American Bar Association, Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools or either of them if they are acting cooperatively shall bring this regulation to the attention of persons who are nominated for or appointed to any of the positions enumerated in paragraph "D" above and to all persons who are holding these positions or who have held them within two years past, at the time the regulation becomes effective.

Adopted by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar–December 10, 1977.

Adopted by the AALS Executive Committee–December 27, 1977.

STATEMENT OF THE COUNCIL, SECTION OF LEGAL EDUCATION AND ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR, AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN LAW SCHOOLS, AND THE BOARD OF MANAGERS OF THE NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF BAR EXAMINERS CONCERNING THE PROPRIETY OF EXAMINATION BY PUBLIC AUTHORITY BEFORE ADMISSION TO PRACTICE

July, 1971

A half century ago the American Bar Association adopted standards for legal education, the second of which is as follows:

"The American Bar Association is of the opinion that graduation from a law school should not confer the right of admission to the bar, and that every candidate should be subject to an examination by public authority to determine his fitness."

The criticism of bar examinations, which is daily becoming more prevalent, makes it most appropriate for the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar and the Board of Managers of the National Conference of Bar Examiners to state their opinion on the matter of the so-called Diploma Privilege.

It is the position of the Council and Board that the above-quoted standard, adopted in 1921, is as valid today—perhaps more so with the mobility of law graduates—as it was at the time and that every applicant for admission to the bar should be subject to examination by public authority.

Very great progress has taken place in the caliber of legal education in the fifty years intervening since 1921. In part the improvement in legal education has been the result of experimentation in teaching techniques. Not all such experiments have proved successful. Public authority should not dictate teaching techniques but it should make sure that all applicants have the training necessary to adequately serve the public upon their admission.

Not only are law schools quite properly experimenting in teaching techniques but they are experimenting in curriculum content. Again, public authority should not dictate curriculum content but by examination should determine that the content of the applicant's education is such that upon admission he will be able to adequately serve the public. In one of the jurisdictions where graduates of certain law schools are admitted without examination, the Court found it necessary to a certain extent to dictate the curriculum content of those schools—an unfortunate limitation on the educational freedom of those schools.

Bar examinations themselves serve additional functions. They encourage law graduates to study subjects not taken in law school. They require the applicant to review all he has learned in law school with a result that he is made to realize the interrelation of the various divisions of the law—to view the separate subject courses which he took in law school as a related whole. This the curriculum of most law schools does not achieve. Also it is the first time many of the applicants will have been examined by persons other than those who taught them, a valuable experience in preparation for appearing before a completely strange judge.

To reiterate, it is the position of the Council and the Board of Managers that there must be examination by public authority. This is not to say that public authority must not be very careful in its examination procedure to make sure that it is fulfilling its responsibilities. It should continually strive to make its methods of examination more effective so that the results will be the nondiscriminatory admission of none not qualified and the exclusion of none qualified, even though this requires the use of innovative examining techniques and constant consideration of the ever-changing needs of our society. The necessity to train lawyers to represent all members of society is a continual challenge to teachers of law and legal education. To test this properly the examining authority can perform effectively and satisfactorily only if it makes responsive changes in its techniques.

POLICY OF THE COUNCIL, SECTION OF LEGAL EDUCATION AND ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR, AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, OPPOSING POSTPONEMENT OF GRADUATION UNTIL LAW SCHOOL HAS RECEIVED ABA APPROVAL

The Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, at its December 6-7, 1980 meeting, upon recommendation of the Section's Bar Admissions Committee, adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, most state supreme courts require graduation from an ABA-approved law school as a requisite for bar admission in order to assure the public that persons representing them in legal matters have received a quality legal education, and

WHEREAS, some individuals begin and complete substantially all of their legal education at unapproved law schools, which law schools have been inspected for possible ABA provisional approval but are found not to meet the ABA Standards during the time of such attendance; and these individuals may then delay their formal graduation until after the law school has received ABA provisional approval, and

WHEREAS, some law schools receiving ABA provisional approval have permitted students to delay their graduation until ABA approval was received and have then awarded such students degrees dated subsequent to receipt of ABA provisional approval,

THEREFORE, the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar hereby adopts a policy disapproving this practice, and requests that all provisionally approved law schools, all law schools seeking provisional approval, all law school inspectors and all state bar admitting authorities be notified of this policy.
